Dear Friends,

Exciting changes are happening as well. For those of you out at 125 Lincoln Street, not only are we being a new home in Roxbury Crossing, but I am happy to announce that MBHP will be known as Metro Housing|Boston.

For those of you who are familiar with our work, you know that our staff members are committed and dedicated. We seek to ensure that every person in Greater Boston will always have a place to call home.

A new name and logo will not change that.

Metro Housing|Boston is pleased to announce that Bank of America will be the presenting sponsor of the Tenth Annual Founders Celebration, to be held at 5:30 pm on Wednesday, November 1. For the second year in a row, the event will be held at John Hancock’s headquarters in the Seaport District. The Founders Celebration was in 2006 to honor the accomplishments of individuals and organizations best representing MBHP on founder William E. Edgerton’s concept of government, nonprofit, and for-profit partnerships to develop, promote, and preserve affordable housing in Greater Boston. New Lease for Homeless Families, Inc. is the recipient of the 2017 Founders Award. For more information, please contact 617-425-6705 or mary.jones@mbhp.org.

The Lowell Richards Award was established in 2002 to recognize individuals for outstanding leadership and contributions across the housing spectrum. The award honors former Board Member Lowell Richards in recognition of his twenty-nine years of dedication to MBHP’s mission. Recipients of this year’s Lowell Richards Award are Steve J. Ruff, Co-Chair of the Metro Housing|Boston Board, the founder of Metropolitan Housing, Inc. and founding Board member of MBHP; and Langley Hayes, President Emeritus at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and founding Board member of Metro Housing|Boston.

Our Mission

We mobilize wide-ranging resources to provide innovative and personalized services that lead families to housing stability, economic security, and an improved quality of life.

Our Programs

MBHP empowers families and individuals to move along the continuum from homelessness to housing stability. Serving more than 25,000 households annually, we work seamlessly to bridge the gaps among government, nonprofit, and corporations to continually increase our impact. With more than 30 years’ experience piloting housing programs, we have solidified our innovative and personalized services.

Our Participants

We partner with others to continually improve our methods. Our broad array of programs and services we administer, as well as our extensive network of property owners and individual providers, allow us to address a wide range of housing-related issues, from preventing evictions and barrin- ing people from unsafe and unaffordable housing, to providing needed services, as well as our extensive network of property owners and individual providers, allow us to address a wide range of housing-related issues, from preventing evictions and barring people from unsafe and unaffordable housing, to providing needed services.

Metro Housing|Boston has been able to double the number of families assisted through the program from 500 to nearly 1,000 over the past four years.

“Our co-location sites provide a lifeline…,” said Walsh. “The programs and services provided at these sites provide a lifeline for people with the lowest incomes and the highest barriers to secure, affordable housing.”

Metro Housing|Boston has been proud to join more than 350 volunteers along with 40 businesses, government agencies, and community-based organizations in support of United Way of Massachusetts Bay and Merrimack Valley’s first Project Homeless Connect. Held on August 11, the event provided resources to more than 200 families experiencing homelessness in one location. The event was hosted by the Reggie Lewis Center in Roxbury, across the street from Metro Housing|Boston’s future office.

Throughout the day, volunteers were paired with an adult or a head of a household experiencing homelessness to guide them through the services they need the most. Representatives from Metro Housing|Boston met with and provided guidance to families in need of housing assistance and financial stability. Staff also conducted search, advice for working with landlords, and a lot of waterfront-related information by Metro Housing|Boston.

Other services provided to families include legal consultation; career coaching; connections to city and state agencies; and back to school supplies.

Staff from Metro Housing|Boston met with Boston Private staff who are donating school supplies for families served by Metro Housing|Boston. The backpacks were delivered to families residing in motel shelters and participant in the HOPEBASE program in time for the start of the new school year. Boston law firms Ropes & Gray also donated backpacks to the cause.

Metro Housing|Boston is now Metropolitan Boston Housing Partnership.

Letter from the Executive Director

Dear Friends,

The arrival of fall is turning color. Kids returning to school; leaves cooler temperatures; turning color.

Exciting changes are happening as well. For those of you here in Boston, not only are we moving to a new home in Roxbury. Ongoing here this fall, I am happy to announce that MBHP will be known as Metro Housing|Boston.

For those of you who are familiar with our work, you know that our staff members are committed and dedicated. We seek to ensure that every person in Greater Boston will always have a place to call home.

A name and logo will not change that. We remain dedicated to mobilizing wide-ranging resources to provide innovative and personalized services that lead families to housing stability, economic security, and an improved quality of life.

Our partner families and partners can count on continued customized services that address a wide range of housing-related issues to help them understand, navigate, and access the public and private services that are available.

Being committed to providing the very best service means our staff to constantly evolve. Our shift to Metro Housing|Boston is part of that transition. In the move to Metro Housing|Boston, we are committed to fulfilling our mission and embracing the affordable housing movement.

Metro Housing|Boston is pleased to announce that Bank of America will be the presenting sponsor of the 2,017 Annual Founders Celebration. To be held at 5:30 pm on Wednesday, November 1. For the second year in a row, the event will be held at John Hancock’s headquarters in the Seaport District.

Receives Grant from Bank of America Charitable Foundation

Last month, Metro Housing Boston received a $50,000 grant from the Bank of America Charitable Foundation as part of their continued investment in Metro Housing Boston’s growing co-location program. Collaborating with community organizations throughout the region, Metro Housing Boston’s co-location program allows residents to access multiple services in neighborhood locations that are physically and culturally accessible. Metro Housing Boston staff hold regular office hours at each co-location site. A variety of resources are available, including housing search, housing applications, reviewing subsidies and locating job training, educational and self-sufficiency programs, and more. With assistance from funders such as Bank of America, Metro Housing Boston has been able to double the number of families assisted through the program from 500 to nearly 1,000 over the past four years.

“We are grateful for the Bank of America Charitable Foundation’s commitment to individuals, families, and communities throughout Greater Boston,” said Walsh.

Metro Housing Boston partners with community-based organizations to offer its programs and services at 11 sites that include Roxbury, Dorchester, Charlestown, Chelsea, Quincy, Somerville, and Waltham.

The Bank of America Charitable Foundation supports programs designed to address pathways to mobility in order to build thriving communities. Special emphasis is directed toward workforce literacy, education, community development, and basic needs.

Metro Housing Boston’s executive director Chris Norris, “The programs and services provided at our co-location sites provide a lifeline for people with the lowest incomes and the highest barriers to secure safe, affordable, and decent homes.”

Joins Federal Budget Support Rally

to "Our Homes, Our Voices" Rally

Metro Housing Boston Partners with over 500 residents, housing advocates, and policymakers from across the state in July 31st in support of federal investments in affordable housing and our communities. U.S. Congresswoman Katherine Clark and Boston Mayor Marty J. Walsh were the keynote speakers at the "Our Homes, Our Voices" Rally.

"It’s often said that where we invest is a reflection of our values,“ said Congresswoman Katherine Clark. “If we value ensuring economic opportunity for every family, that includes housing, we should invest in ensuring access to safe, secure, and affordable homes.”

As a member of the House Committee on Appropriations’ Subcommittee on Transportation, Housing and Urban Development, Congresswoman Clark is one of four subcommittee leaders of Congress responsible for a federal law that funds the US Department of Housing and Urban Development.

“Boston is on track to meet the housing goals we set in our 2030 plan, but our city and our region need support from the country,” said Walsh. “We need stable, affordable housing for all families, our Boston 2030 housing plan, but our city and our region need support from the country.”

"We are entitled to the housing stability that is common in most other cities, towns, and the state have made in affordable housing, community development, and reducing family homelessness."

Metro Housing Boston co-sponsored the rally organized by Citizens’ Housing and Planning Association (CHAPA) at Faneuil Hall as part of the National Housing Action which resulted in more than 40 events nationwide. Locally, more than 30 organizations were represented including Housing Development, Congresswoman Clark is one of four subcommittee leaders of Congress responsible for a federal law that funds the US Department of Housing and Urban Development.
